Geneva Golf & Country Club

Geneva in the Twentieth Century

April 26, 1900 Muscatine Golf Club was founded by Dr. F.H. Little, C.R. Musser and John Sterneman May 30, 1900 Opening day of the Muscatine Golf Club - a nine-hole course.

April 11, 1901 Original golf course was redesigned to add more length. The decision was made to build a Clubhouse. 1902 Muscatine Golf Club reorganized and incorporated under the name Geneva Golf & Country Club. The Club's land and buildings were purchased under a separate corporation called Geneva Realty Co. August 6, 1902 Formal opening of the first clubhouse.

July 11, 1911 The Clubhouse was struck by lightning and burned. Estimated loss was $4,500.00. Arrangements were made to use the Electric Park's pavilion as a Clubhouse.

May 14, 1913 Construction of the second Clubhouse was finished at a cost of $1500.00. 1918 The clubhouse was used as an annex to the hospital during the flu siege. January 21, 1960 Membership approved the renovation of the Clubhouse and adding a swimming pool. Project established in 1961 at an estimated cost of $70,000. 1968 The club bought 17 acres of land to enlarge the golf course. 1976 Ninety-three acres of land were purchased to allow expansion of the golf course to 18 holes. Plans and refinancing of the $650,000 project included 12 new holes, watered fairways and 15 new greens. 1979 Financing of the 18 hole golf course expansion was approved in June and construction started later that summer. 1982 The club celebrated its second "Grand Opening." Members played the "new" layout in mid-May. The official dedication ceremonies were held on Friday, May 28 following a festive weekend of activities. Construction of the halfway house was completed at a cost of $19,000 and four devastating rainstorms caused $70,000 damaged to the golf course. 1990 Geneva Realty Co. was dissolved. 1992 Approved construction of a new Club facility at an estimated cost of $3.5 million. August of 1993 Moved into the new facility at 3100 Bidwell Road. Construction of the new driving range began. 1994 Opened the driving range. 2000 Geneva Golf & Country Club celebrated its 100th anniversary.
